THE CLERK: Good morning. We're here with Judge
Sannes in the case Oliver versus The New York State Police, 15-cv-444. Miss Oliver, are you on the line?

MS. OLIVER: Yes, I am.

THE CLERK: Can I get the appearance for the defendants, please?

MR. MOORE: Dan Moore and Josh Steele from Harris, Beach, PLLC, representing all the defendants with the exception of Lieutenant McKee.

MS. JOSLIN: Lisa Joslin, from Gleason, Dunn, Walsh

& O'Shea, on behalf of defendant Martin McKee.

THE COURT: Good morning to everyone. Thank you for calling in for this telephonic conference call. And we do have a court reporter on the line, so if you could identify yourselves before you speak and speak slowly, that would be helpful so that we can get this all down.

Generally at this time we would be looking to discuss whether Miss Oliver will have counsel for trial and to set a trial date. Unfortunately, with the COVID-19, it's made jury trials impractical at this point in time. We are hopeful that will change, but at this point in time I could not set a trial date in the near future. So we'll discuss in a little bit whether counsel would seek to set a trial date maybe for sometime in 2021 or hold off on that when we have a better outlook.

Let's start with the issue of counsel. Miss 1 2 Oliver, now that the Court has ruled on the summary judgment 3 motion and the causes of action that are remaining have been limited, have you attempted to obtain counsel for trial? 4 5 MS. OLIVER: Um, yes, ma'am, I have. 6 Unfortunately, I think it's been difficult ever since my 7 attorney left just because for an attorney to step in to a case that's at these stages, at this stage of the 8 9 proceedings, I just, I can't find anyone that's willing to 10 get involved in this. 11 THE COURT: And the Court -- the summary judgment 12 ruling was April 27. Have you made any attempt to obtain 13 counsel for trial following the summary judgment ruling? 14 MS. OLIVER: Yes. I mean, I've never stopped 15 trying to find legal counsel since my attorney left. 16 Unfortunately, you know, I've talked with, spoken with a few 17 attorneys, but I haven't had any luck in getting anyone to 18 move forward to assist me in this. Although I will continue 19 to try to find someone to help me with this. 20 THE COURT: Okay. Have you made -- let me just 21 make very clear, have you made any efforts after April 27, 22 2020 to obtain counsel for trial? 23 MS. OLIVER: Yes, I have. 24 THE COURT: Okay. So you're seeking to have 25 counsel for trial?

1 MS. OLIVER: I would like someone, yes. Yes, 2 ma'am.

THE COURT: Okay. What I would propose is that I give you some amount of time, maybe thirty days, to make -- now that you have a summary judgment ruling, which does, it does limit what's left in the case, so it may be more helpful in obtaining counsel since that describes kind of what's left in the case, to give you some time to try to find counsel for trial. And then if you could let the court know within thirty days what efforts you've made to try to find counsel and whether you are seeking to have counsel for trial.

MS. OLIVER: Um, I can do that, ma'am, if that's what you would like me to do. I mean, I have spoken, like I said, with a couple of attorneys. It seems a little bit of a problem in that the response I'm getting is, okay, I need $30,000 up front. And, I mean, I don't have that kind of money to hand someone again. I've already paid over $50,000. So I just -- I mean, I don't have that type of money to hand to someone.

So, I mean, I will obviously keep checking, but I'm prepared to proceed pro se, and I am still obviously seeking the Court's reconsideration on some of those claims that were dismissed.

THE COURT: Well, let's stick with the counsel issue. I'll give you thirty days. So by June 19 if you could let the court know what efforts you've made since the summary judgment ruling to try to obtain counsel and whether you have the resources to obtain counsel, the Court could

MS. OLIVER: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: So if you could submit a letter by June 19th.

consider appointing counsel to represent you at trial.

And do counsel have any opinion now, and I don't need an opinion now, but on whether you would prefer to set a trial date in 2021?

MR. MOORE: Your Honor, Dan Moore, representing the defendants with the exception of Martin McKee.

From our perspective, Judge, I think that it may be wise to have a date locked in place so that we have something to work with, but again, I think we're open either way.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. JOSLIN: I agree with Mr. Moore.

THE COURT: Okay. So what then I'll ask counsel to do with Miss Oliver, who I understand also can communicate by e-mail, is to work with my courtroom deputy in setting a trial date that will likely be in 2021.

Miss Oliver, you mentioned a motion for reconsideration. A motion for reconsideration under our Local Rules are due no later than 14 days from the date of the decision, that's Local Rule 7.1(g). I did look at the letter that you sent, which was after the due date, and we did consider that and denied your request to reconsider the ruling.

MS. OLIVER: Okay. Because the -- I mean, I wasn't prepared to start arguing the case out of fear of being sanctioned for going forward with outlining those issues, so I was drawing that on your past rulings cautioning me not to argue matters that have already been decided, so I just wanted to get an approval from you before I did that.

THE COURT: And under our Local Rules the time for reconsideration has passed. What is it that you seek to point out to the Court?

MS. OLIVER: Well, I just -- my concern is, and perhaps in the affirmation and the opposing papers that I submitted, may have been overly lengthy so that it caused the Court to overlook things, but some of the statements that -- some of the rulings that were made in the decision, they're inaccurate. So when I plan for a trial, I don't know how to plan to argue if we're going back and looking at the Court's ruling, some of those things are just, they're inaccurate. I don't know how I would say, you know, because the Court decided this, I have to go in this direction.

But the decision is not accurate based on the evidence in the case and based on the information that I've submitted in my opposing papers.

Telephone Conference - 5/21/2020 - 15-cv-444

THE COURT: What is one example of what you're talking about?

MS. OLIVER: Well, for instance, Judge, I know -- and I've kind of bulletized things, I don't have it all right in front of me right now, but I know in one portion you had mentioned that the retaliation could be the fact that I was transferred from a unit from CNET West, which was basically a unit where you're outside, you're in the field, you're doing all of these things, versus my forced transfer into Troop A CTIU as an information sharing unit where my duties were mainly behind a desk.

The problem with that is that it's not true. Steven Nigrelli assigned me the same assignments, the same duties I performed in CNET. I was executing raids. I was working with the same drug agencies I worked with when I was in CNET. And I gave the court those documents. I gave them all of the operational duties. I was at the raids with the FBI, the DEA, Buffalo PD, Lackawanna PD, Amherst PD. Those are the assignments Steven Nigrelli personally gave me.

And Michael Cerretto was there at these raids. He spoke at these raids. So he certainly knew I was there. He knew I was transporting prisoners, that I was interviewing defendants who were arrested that were involved in narcotics trafficking rings and gang-related violence. And yet when Steven Nigrelli gave his sworn testimony during my hearing, and I also provided the court with that, he testified that I was strictly assigned to an information sharing unit that had no operational duties. That wasn't true.

THE COURT: However, Miss Oliver, let me stop you here.

MS. OLIVER: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: I think one of the problems that you have in this case is that I've tried to explain very clearly, orally and also in the written decisions, what the law is, and the law is that you cannot challenge the facts that were determined by the hearing board and that were found to have been substantially supported by the New York Court of Appeals. I'm bound by that law and you're bound by that law.

MS. OLIVER: I'm sorry, ma'am. Just again, it's in my opposing papers, but during discovery, during Richard Allen's sworn deposition, he confirmed that he never wrote the hearing board's findings. The hearing board's findings were written by Lois Goland. There was no decision by the hearing board because the hearing board never made a decision, it was done by --

THE COURT: Miss Oliver, I'm going to stop you here, because I think you haven't read the decision and the law. It doesn't matter who wrote those facts.

So I am going to deny your letter motion, your most recent letter motion, which is docket 331. I have already ruled on your request for reconsideration and I've denied that, and that's denied for the same reason.

So what we need to do now is I will set a trial date coordinating with counsel and with you, and we will -if you could work on finding counsel for trial, and I will consider your letter, which is due by June 19, and I will consider whether if you are not able to find counsel for trial, if you're not able, if you don't have the resources to obtain counsel for trial, I will consider the possibility of appointing counsel to represent you at trial.

MS. OLIVER: Okay.

THE COURT: And then let me ask counsel, Mr. Moore and Ms. Joslin, anything further?

MR. MOORE: Judge, I believe this is a closed issue, but I do note that in one of the decisions by Magistrate Judge Stewart he left open the possibility of expert disclosure after the decision on summary judgment was issued, and in reading the Court's decision, I see no reason for any expert disclosure at this point. However, I just want to make sure the parties are clear on that point because we want to avoid a situation where that may come up at trial and there has not been disclosure.

And so I only bring it up for that purpose because Miss Oliver is pro se and, you know, I'm sure she understands her obligations with respect to expert disclosure, but that

Telephone Conference - 5/21/2020 - 15-cv-444

is additional discovery that would need to be conducted if she believes there is still an issue there.

THE COURT: Okay, thank you. That's something I had forgotten about and thank you for bringing that up,
Mr. Moore. Miss Oliver?

MS. OLIVER: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: Any response?

MS. OLIVER: Well, yes, I intend on raising this issue. Throughout this entire case I've argued that there has been fraudulent documents produced. The documents related to the firearms transfer records are forged. I never sold a firearm to Red Barn Firearms. And I know who forged it. I spoke with the firearms store owner. I mean, I know what happened here. And so, yes, I fully intend on raising this issue during trial.

THE COURT: Well, what Mr. Moore has pointed out is that there is a time for discovery and that time has closed, but there apparently was some discussion about leaving the expert disclosure issue for after a summary judgment ruling.

So there are no issues for discovery left other than that issue. The way this works is the discovery has happened, the Court's ruled on summary judgment, there was one discovery issue outstanding, and that's what Mr. Moore has brought up.

What exactly are you seeking at this point with

Telephone Conference - 5/21/2020 - 15-cv-444

1 | respect to that expert disclosure issue?

resolved.

MS. OLIVER: Well, I mean, my expert has already come forward and submitted a report with his findings based on the limited documents that we received from the defendants, so I don't know what Mr. Moore would want to do in addition to that. But, yes, I mean, I definitely want there to be full disclosure of this, and if there is an issue

remaining, discovery related to that, then I would like it

THE COURT: How are the firearms transfer records relevant to what's remaining at trial?

MS. OLIVER: Well, they're relevant because it shows the intent of the defendants to falsify documents, forge documents, anything that they could do, and it matches with the SJS investigative report that a subordinate was directed to also falsify, so it's all very much related.

THE COURT: Who do you believe falsified the records?

MS. OLIVER: The transfer records or the SJS investigative report?

THE COURT: Let's start with the transfer records.

MS. OLIVER: Well, the transfer records, at least one of them was forged by Walter Macnee (phonetic), who was a supervisor in CNET West, and the other one was done by Timothy Moore -- I'm sorry, Timothy Bour, who was also a former supervisor in CNET West.

The investigative report, the SJS entry, someone directed Investigator Michael Sims to falsify that because, probably because people were angry that this was done to me, the illegal search and seizure of my home. So when that happened he was directed to write a SJS entry which falsely reported that the search or the confusion was due to errors made on the transfer records by me. But I have copies of all the transfer records and there were no errors on those. So that's what they were using to try to justify the illegal search and seizure that I was subjected to.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me ask Mr. Moore, what discovery issue do you believe is outstanding?

MR. MOORE: Your Honor, I don't believe there is any discovery issue outstanding. I think what I just wanted to bring up was the fact that given the limitations of what is left in the case, which includes specific claims with respect to hostile work environment and retaliation, there is no relevant discovery that is required any further.

To this point, Miss Oliver, when the case was being litigated, she initially indicated she was going to have an expert look at records but she did not comply with the expert disclosure rules, and at the time with Magistrate Judge Stewart's help we decided that instead of getting into that issue, we would wait and put it off to see if it was still necessary once a summary judgment decision was issued. And it is my belief that it is not necessary because this case is now limited to specific retaliation and hostile work environment claims that have nothing to do with what Miss Oliver is referring to, that that will not be a part of the case.

MS. OLIVER: Yes, I completely disagree.

THE COURT: Let me just ask Mr. Moore. So did Miss Oliver actually identify an expert who submitted a report with his findings?

MR. MOORE: She did not comply with the rules of -the civil procedure rules that require disclosure by the expert. What she did do was she had -- she did identify an expert to review certain documents, but we don't have what disclosure requires. And when we discussed that, we all agreed to put that off until after summary judgment.

And again, the hope was that it may not -- you know, the time, effort, and cost involved with that would be unnecessary in the event that summary judgment would somehow take care of this issue, and in my view it has.

THE COURT: Right. And so I think I probably need a little bit more information to make a final ruling. How would you frame the question that Miss Oliver should address with respect to sending a written submission to the court?

MR. MOORE: My suggestion, Your Honor, would be, the issue would be whether or not a handwriting expert is relevant given the issues that remain in the case.

MS. OLIVER: So, if my claim is retaliation and part of that retaliation are these falsified documents, these forged documents, these things done to cover this retaliation, we're going to pretend that that's not relevant? I just totally disagree.

And the only reason I agreed to hold off -- I mean, my expert prepared a written report, so he examined documents, the state police brought the documents to his workshop where we examined the documents, he completed a full report, he submitted it to the court. I only agreed to hold off because I didn't want to necessarily delay the case and incur additional expenses. I agreed to hold off until after summary motions were heard, but never to say, well, down the road after all of this is dismissed, we'll just pretend that that's not relevant to this either. That's not at all true.

THE COURT: Miss Oliver, if you could submit a letter to the court concisely describing how the handwriting expert is relevant to the issues remaining. You've indicated to me that the people who forged these documents I don't believe are any of the defendants that are still left in the case, so if you could submit a letter and include your expert analysis, the expert's report as an attached exhibit.

And I'm looking for something that's concise. I want to just focus on at this point given the issues that are left in the case, and as Mr. Moore indicated, the issues that are left are relatively limited, so the issues, there are retaliation issues but they're fairly limited to certain acts of retaliation. So how this is relevant to the case. And then I'll let Mr. Moore and Ms. Joslin respond, and then I'll make a ruling.

MS. OLIVER: Okay. Well, Martin McKee specifically received these firearms transfer records because they were all submitted to him, so it is very relevant to this case, and I fully intend on raising this during trial. But I will submit the letter to the Court with proof that this is relevant to the retaliation.

THE COURT: Okay. And how much time do you need to submit that letter?

MR. MOORE: I guess I would like to have at least two weeks because I am also working on the other, submitting the documentation for the other aspect of this.

THE COURT: Okay. So two weeks would be June 4th. So if you could submit a letter on that issue by June 4th, I think no more than ten pages because I want it focused on if you could look at the Court's decision and see what's left in the case, how this is relevant.

And with respect to trial, at trial the Court will permit anything, obviously, that's relevant and admissible,

THE COURT: And, Miss Oliver, as I mentioned, there are Local Rules that even pro se litigants have to follow, and our Local Rule is 14 days for a motion for reconsideration.
